The Women's College Club of Princeton, the second oldest women's club in Princeton, was founded in 1916.

Our Constitution states: "The purpose of the Women's College Club shall be to maintain a scholarship fund for the use of Princeton girls; to encourage high scholarship in our schools; to stimulate the intellectual interests of college women, and foster friendly fellowship among our members."

At least one-third of our yearly dues is allocated to the scholarship fund. Scholarships are awarded to eligible girls from the four secondary schools of Princeton and prizes of $25 each are awarded to the top ranking girl scholar at each of these schools. A memorial loan fund is also maintained by the club.

Our meetings are usually held the third Monday of each month from September through May in the Social Room of the All Saints' Chapel on Van Dyke Road in Princeton. Most will be afternoon meetings starting at 1:30, and a few will be family programs held at 8 P.M.

The Program Committee secures informative and stimulating speakers for the regular monthly meetings. In addition, there are neighborhood coffees in the fall and a new member tea in the spring. There will also be theater and educational trips. Our special interest groups, e.g., Art, Bridge, Current Book Review, French Conversation and Reading, Handicrafts and Tuesday Study, meet throughout the year. A single fund raising card party augments our scholarship fund. All programs are publicized in the local papers and in our program, the Blue Slip, which is mailed to members monthly.

College Club help sparked Ms. Bayles

by Louise R. Ritenour
Special Writer

"If it hadn't been for the Women's College Club of Princeton, I wouldn't have been able to go to college."

So spoke Verna Bayles, now 84, who was the first recipient of financial aid from the club in 1916, the year of its founding by the late Marguerite McClenaghan, along with May Ingalls Beggs and others.

Miss Bayles, a native Princetonian, will be the guest of honor at the club's 65th birthday party — a scholarship benefit dessert-bridge and sale, to be held at Stuart Country Day School on Monday, March 9.

"We were a family of modest means," she continued, relaxing in the home built on the edge of Princeton University campus by her father back in 1909. "I was the oldest of four children. My father was a letter carrier, and there wasn't enough money for college in those days."

SHE WAS GRADUATED from Princeton High in 1915 and spent part of the next year working and part at home when her sister's scarlet fever quarantined the whole household.

"I learned that the newly-founded Women's College Club was making financial aid available," she went on, "and I was able to get an interest-free loan. They hadn't yet established their scholarships as such. They raised their money by selling home-grown vegetables and home-made jams, jellies, and bread. Everybody knew everyone else in town, and it was all very cozy."

With the loan, and a tuition scholarship from the college itself, Miss Bayles entered Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa., in 1916, and was graduated in 1920.

After a brief stint working for the first Wilson College nationwide endowment drive, with headquarters in New York, Miss Bayles joined the staff of the acquisitions department of the Princeton University Library in January 1921 on a temporary basis. She continued there for the next 40 years, retiring in 1961 as department supervisor.

"WHEN THEY HIRED ME," she reminisced, "I was paid a bit — a very little bit — more than other entry-level employees, because I had a college degree. I hadn't planned a library career, and after a couple of years I went into New York one afternoon a week and took courses at Columbia, including one in creative writing under Dorothy Canfield Fisher. I had to find out, you see, if I was going to be another Edith Wharton. I wasn't — it turned out that I was a book lover rather than a book writer!"

Some of the most dramatic happenings in acquisitions occurred during World War II, according to Miss Bayles. There was the loss of a shipment of books from Italy when the ship carrying them was sunk, and an original manuscript by Walter Savage Landor was lost in the London blitz. It was in a supposedly fireproof safe, but was completely destroyed when the intense heat of a bombing melted the safe. "After those episodes, we always had photostatic copies made of rare and valuable acquisitions.

"In a way," Miss Bayles concluded, you could say that the Women's College Club launched me on my lifetime career. I've always supported the club through the years."

THE CLUB NOW awards several scholarships each year to young women entering college, and has a memorial loan fund that makes interest-free loans available to women already in college.

The public is invited to the "birthday party" — with the sale (including a silent auction) beginning at 11 a.m. on March 9. Reservations to play bridge at $14 per table may be made by telephoning Anne Frazier, 924-6369. Items for the silent auction are now displayed in the window of Clayton's on Palmer Square.

Applications for scholarships are already in the hands of the Scholarship Committee, of which Dell Stifel is chairman.

The scholarship fund, which over the years has helped hundreds of students, has grown to a considerable amount. It is made up from part of the annual dues, income on investments, voluntary contributions, and from an annual benefit party in March. Under the chairmanship of Margaret Driggs, the benefit party raised over $2000 this year.

The College Club has a Memorial Education Loan Fund, begun relatively recently and still modest, which is made up of contributions given in honor of a partiuclar person.
